W. P. WALTON.

SENATOR JAMES B. BECK.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]
Legislative assemblies are far more numerous in the United States than any other country upon the earth. Territories and State legislatures the least law making bodies because they legislate for the least number. Congress the greatest, making laws for both Territory and State. The members of these bodies as a rule vary in intelligence, ability and experience, according to the assembly to which they are elected or chosen. The State legislatures are composed of, presumably, the best qualified from each county of the State. Likewise the House of Representatives is made up of the most experienced and best suited from the various Congressional districts of the States. The Senate, the highest, ablest and most profound legislative body of the entire country, is, owing to this fact, composed of the wisest, greatest and best men of the States. As in our judiciary system the scale of legal knowledge and wisdom, beginning at the lowest in magistrates' courts, gradually ascends through all the various courts to that of the Supreme Court of the Nation. So in the legislative branch of our country's government, beginning at the State Legislature and ending in the Senate of Congress, so that to be a member of this great and wise body is no small thing; and to be its leader, the most powerful, formidable and best equipped man with facts, of the entire body, is to occupy the highest pinnacle, save one, of political honor and prominence to which a man can raise himself or be raised by the American people. This place is now filled by James B. Beck, of Kentucky. The reasons, we believe, that Mr. Beck is accorded this position, mainly and holds it so well, is that the day of peace and progress is upon us; the seeds of sectional strife and dislike remain not between the North and South, beyond the natural consequences of a somewhat different people, owing to climate, education, customs and surroundings. The day when the breath of the demagogue could blow the remaining sparks of the war into temporary flames, has gone, for they now serve but the purpose of extinguishing themselves in their own ashes. The Senate, therefore, has become the political graveyard for the orator whose powers consist in waving the bloody shirt and dealing with glittering generalities that would arouse the populace upon the hustings, for it listens only to those who deal in facts and figures; who can give the minutest details of past legislation and its effects, and with these as a basis can point out unerringly the necessary legislation that will most successfully guide, control and direct this great people in the true channel of progress and prosperity. Here lies Mr. Beck's greatest power. He is the best informed man in the country to day contains on all topics that has been and may come before the Senate for discussion or legislation. His statements are never refuted and seldom disputed. A sad calamity would it be for the nation as well as State should Kentucky retire him. Truly ungrateful would she be to do such a thing, for he has done and will do more for a Kentucky than most any other man, because he has the ability, inclination and opportunity to do so. He is unquestionably the hardest worker about the Capitol—the great democratic giant, who never rises from his seat without feeling his opponent; the champion of the people's rights; the stay between them and the mammoth grasping corporation; the fearless enemy to all frauds and jobs; the all-purpose, honest, brainy man, the like of whom is seldom seen. Kentucky, so proud of her name and gifted sons, appreciates merit and worth too much to contemplate for a moment seriously losing the lustre and honor reflected upon her by this great man, to fail to allow him to succeed himself in the United States Senate.

ONIONS FOR NERVOUS PROSTRATION.—Those who are in the habit of indulging in raw onions may be consoled for the mature and able bodied odor which wraps them as in a veil, and cause men, women and children to flee from their malodorous vicinity, by the fact that onions are the best nerve known. No medicine is really so efficacious in cases of nervous prostration and they tone up a worn out system in a very short time. Their absorbent powers are also most valuable, especially in times of epidemic. It has repeatedly been observed that an onion patch in the immediate vicinity of a house acts as a shield against the pestilence, which is very apt to pass over the inmates of that house. Sliced onions in a sick room absorb all the germs and prevent contagion. During an epidemic the confirmed onion eater should, however, eschew his usual diet, as the germs of the disease are present in the onion and contagion can easily result. (Globe Democrat)

Letter from Morgan T. Craft.

WARSAW, Mo., May 18, 1887.

DEAR INTERIOR.—Stranded upon the unavoidable reef of travel—railway misconnections—hung up here for several hours of weary waiting, and having bored all my friends, the wife of my bosom, my uncles, cousins and aunts, with many-page letters of absorbing (?) interest, I cannot refrain from "drapping a few lines" to that true and able exponent of democratic principles and Kentucky greatness, the INTERIOR JOURNAL, "for whom he loveth he chasteneth!"

Leaving Louisville over the O. & M., on the night of the 5th, after the democracy of Kentucky had formulated a magnificent ticket of grand statesmen to soundly thrash the republican party, and afterwards to acceptably and successfully administer the affairs of State, I have traveled o'er many a weary league of Missouri soil, stopping first at Jefferson Barracks, in St. Louis county, which, as its name suggests, is a government army post; then on to Bismark, which place is a great joke on the illustrious German Premier, although a considerable little railroad centre; on through Poplar Bluff and Hoxie, Arkansas, over the K. C. & S. M., to Fordland and Springfield; then down the Chadwick branch to Sparta, the home of the festive and famous "Bald Knobbers." At Springfield some dozen or more of these patriotic souls now languish in an earthly and altogether unromantic "goal." Strange to say the home and haunts of these self-constituted conservators of the peace is in Christian county, and, stranger still, public sentiment had all along been warmly with the Knobbers, until on an unlucky day, or night, I may say, they in cold blood murdered a couple of innocent young men who disliked to be whipped like dogs and stubbornly refused to be "regulated" or "bald knobbed." Notwithstanding everything was perfectly quiet while I was there. I could not but feel greatly relieved when the poky old "mixed" train on this slow going branch landed me safely back at Springfield, a driving and growing little city of some 10,000 souls.

From Springfield I took the Gulf road to Ash Grove, changing there to the Kansas City Southern for Humansville (wrongly named), then to Caplinger's Mills, Rookline, Preston and Mack's Creek, by $4 a day private conveyance, the one impossibility of the Creator Himself being to hire a horse, or in any way avoid the ruinous prices of southwestern Missouri liverymen. At all of the places named I have met with bitter and determined opposition in my business (star routing), but what little Kentucky pluck I could carry with me has in every case won a satisfactory victory. Finishing up my last "rural route," on that run, at Mack's Creek, in one of the most dreary rains it was ever my misfortune to be out in, I paid $3, freely, to get over to this place, a distance of 27 miles, and feel like now I was again nearing God's country, being able to get a railroad to my next work, which is at Marshall.

I know this recapitulation of my "life and work" must be of the most intense interest to your readers, but I have not the time now to prolong it.

All along my line of travel, crops are in a flourishing condition and it seems to me much further advanced than is usual in Kentucky. Growing corn has been thoroughly cleaned once and in many cases twice, and is often seen "knee high," while wheat looks especially well and promises a fine yield. Altogether, Missouri, so far as I have seen, is enjoying good health and prosperity, with abundant promise of peace and plenty for the future.

I have met many Kentuckians, all of whom agree with me that whatever Missouri may be, or claim to be, Kentucky is the garden spot of the world. At Hermitage I ran across a gentleman who stormed the citadel of my heart and proved his own intelligence by "rushing for Cleveland and Carlisle." As for myself, I say, and feel it from the bottom of my heart, God bless my old Kentucky home; and an ardent admirer of Mr. Cleveland, God speed the day when her pure and able son, John Griffin Carlisle, shall be President of the United States, a position no more an honor to himself than a blessing to his country.

M. T. CRAFT.

A most stupendous exhibition of nerve and coolness is sometimes required in the life of a man who works in dynamite. One year ago in a local factory, a 4,000-pound tank of nitro glycerine suddenly caught fire. Flames six feet high burst from the surface of the fluid. Superintendent Frank Roller and foreman Erick Starke were present and they immediately turned compressed air into the tank and by other means suppressed the flames. It must be remembered that the nitro glycerine will burn until a heat of about 350 degrees is reached and then it will explode. If the fire can be extinguished before that degree of heat is reached, there will be no serious consequence. In the above instance, it was the safer course to try to put out the flames, as if an explosion was to occur it would come too quickly to allow escape to a safe distance. A man under such circumstances, however, is more liable to use his legs than his thinking faculties. If the tank had exploded its way, standing within six feet of it would also have exploded, sending up 3,000 pounds of nitro glycerine in one flash. The detonation would, no doubt, have been sensibly felt in all parts of the State.—San Francisco Call.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—The sick reported in last letter are improving.

—A good crowd from here attended the S. S. Convention at Mareburg Sunday.

—Dr. Peyton and Roid came down Saturday to perform a surgical operation upon the head of a young Mr. Lynn, who was injured at a saw mill some time ago, but found an operation was not necessary.

—Miss Mollie Brooks, one of Crab Orchard's pretty girls, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Elmiaton, were visiting friends here Friday. Hugh Miller paid our place a flying visit Saturday from his Kirkville school.

—Our esteemed friend and western traveler, M. T. Craft, passed down on the train Friday evening returning from Kansas. Was sorry to know that he did not enjoy his trip, being sick during most of his journey.

—Mr. James Wood, who left this place for Kansas in 1858 and located in Colley, is here for a two months' visit. He says business is lively there. They have four railroads through the county and more building.

—This division of the L. & N., is on a boom; from 18 to 24 trains per day and care for shipment of freight are at a premium. We understand there are orders in for 200 more box cars than can be furnished at present.

—As is often the case when names are not particularly mentioned in articles referring to different matters some parties take it all to themselves when in fact no reference is made to them. Such was the case with the little paragraph in this column last week about church affairs here. Much more could have been said on the subject and would have been had we thought any good could have been accomplished thereby.

OBITUARY.

—On Friday morning at 4 o'clock, May 20, 1887, at his home in Lincoln county, Elijah S. Sadduth finished his short pilgrimage of 29 years and 16 days. In March, 1858, he was stricken down with typhoid fever; all that could be done for him to restore him to health was done, but he fell a victim to consumption, which robbed him of his life after a struggle of 14 months. He bore his afflictions bravely; not a murmur of complaint escaped his lips. He obeyed the commands of the gospel at the early age of 15 years and was a member of the Christian church at Ooshen. A large concourse of friends followed him to the family burying ground, where he was laid beside loved ones gone before. He leaves a fond mother, a loving, grief-stricken sister, who was far away when the summons came, and a little brother, too young to realize the loss he sustains, besides many devoted friends to mourn his loss, for all who knew him loved the noble boy. Generous, loving and true-hearted, he will be sadly missed in and outside his family circle; his bright face and cheery voice will be seen and heard no more—but dear ones, sorrow not as those without hope.

There is a balm for wounded hearts,
A rest for souls forlorn;
A home where friend from friend's part,
And all are found in heaven.

The recent sale of the Kentucky and Great Eastern by the United States Court illustrates the manner in which the people are sometimes swindled by railroad companies with high-sounding names. The Kentucky and Great Eastern consisted of a legislative franchise and a debt of $1,000,000. On its own map the road ran from Mayeville to Newport. In reality it runs nowhere, for it was never built. The counties along the line voted large subsidies and the $1,000,000 which the road owed was wasted in surveys, salaries, etc. When the road was sold a few days ago it brought $500. The Kentucky and Great Eastern is not the only railroad scheme in the State which, after being voted aid by the people, has never been built. It is partly due to this cause that Kentucky's railroad mileage is so small. Green county has a railroad debt of $800,000, due for a road which was only partly built. The assessed valuation of the county is only $1,200,000. Although a recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States says that these bonds shall be paid, yet no one has been found bold enough to undertake their collection. It is the duty of the county judge to do so, but on Friday he received an anonymous warning that it would be as much as his life was worth to undertake it. Consequently he will have to resign. Allen county also has a large debt for a railroad that was never built. Only last year Bath county paid $40,000, the last installment on a subsidy voted nearly 30 years ago to a railroad that was never built. Taylor county has had a similar experience, and it is no wonder that the people of this State are backward in voting aid to railroads.

A Card.

Dog Bit.—Last Thursday morning Solomon, a son of J. M. Elmore, was eating at J. M. Paillards on an errand, he was badly bitten by a dog owned by the said Phillips. When application was made to him by the father of the boy to kill the dog, he stubbornly refused to do so and took him and locked him up. This shows how much more a man can care for a dog than he does for human blood. J. M. Elmore.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—The next six weeks will be the carnival of educational festivities. Liberty leads off on the 24th and 25th inst. with a Sunday school convention; Wayneburg comes in with closing exercises of Prof. Niles' school, 27th and 28th; the County Teachers' Association will be at Crab Orchard June 18; the commencement celebrations at Centre College June 12-16; the State Teachers' Association at Louisville June 7-9th.

—Will Dodd sold his gray gelding last week to a party from Minnesota for $600. By the way, the enterprise of breeding fine horses is on a decided boom in this region and the fame of Lincoln county as a producer of extra stock in this line is becoming widely extended. The pedigree of a horse is at present a matter of greater interest than the ancestry of a prospective son in law; and the possible good qualities of the latter are entirely eclipsed by the brilliant record of the former.

—The various questions pertaining to State and National politics have for the time subsided. Our rural population is of too homogeneous a character to invite the attention of the anarchists, socialists or nihilists, and the pending controversy of labor vs. capital will probably be mooted; and perhaps the battle fought, without disturbing the even tenor of our lives. The larger towns and manufacturing districts have reason to be disturbed over the threatened issue. A growing spirit of recklessness and lawlessness is certainly abroad; and we stand to day over a political volcano the throes of which are daily becoming more perceptible, and the first eruption of which, is not averted by prudent counsel and wise legislation, will precipitate a chaos of political, financial and social ruin, unheard of in the history of our model government. It is chimerical to appeal to the genius of our population. That population is not composed of the elements that gave brilliancy and glory to the record of the revolutionary period. History repeats itself, and the elements of discord which have been a constant curse to the Old World, have been transplanted by thousands to our shores, scheming, plotting, organizing to secure in this land of blosse, a toleration a magnitude and a power capable of upheaving from its very foundations the proud edifices consecrated by the blood of our fathers, that on its ruins they may build a bloody, soulless and lawless anarchy.

W. P. WALTON.

A SENSATIONAL story comes from Georgia. Leggett, the wife-murderer, was condemned to die on the gallows at Reidsville last Friday. At the last hour Thursday, Leggett's lawyer prevailed on the governor to respite the wretch till the question of his sanity could be investigated. Reidsville is 45 miles from the railroad and the same distance from a telegraph office. The lawyer immediately took the cars for the nearest station, where he procured a horse and buggy and by driving all night he hoped to reach the sheriff in time to stop the execution. He did reach him in time to save the man's neck, but he didn't have a minute to spare, for the noose had been adjusted, the black cap drawn and the officer in the act of springing the trap, when the excited lawyer arrived and produced his papers. Leggett stood paralyzed with fear, but when he heard the good news he fell upon his knees and poured forth his thanks to God and the lawyer in fervent prayer. It is a pity that something hadn't kept the lawyer back just two minutes.

We are indebted to Mr. L. T. Davidson, president of the Courier-Journal Job Printing Company, for a copy of Smith's History of Kentucky, gotten out sometime ago by that office. Judges have pronounced the work an able and correct historical record, while the mechanical execution is almost perfection—a thing of beauty and a joy forever to a printer's eye. The handsome illustrations, with which the book abounds, are all the work of the company's experienced corps of artists, and in this department, as well as in all others of the printing business, it has not a rival in the South. The magnitude of the concern can be imagined when it is told that the pay-roll of employees, exclusive of officers, is from $1,200 to $1,600 a week. This department is separate and distinct from the newspaper and none of its employees, type or presses are used in common.

We find from conversation with the more conservative of the prohibitionists that it is not their desire to nominate a candidate for the legislature, though the chairman of the county committee has called a meeting for that purpose. A very few ultra and impracticable men, who want to rule or ruin, favor it, but the majority think that Dr. Pettus is good enough for them. There can be no objection urged to the doctor by the most rabid prohibitionist. He is a practical temperance man, is for permitting no further vote on the whiskey question in this county and will vote himself for a submission of a constitutional prohibition clause to the vote of the people of the State. What more could be asked? We have heard of no aspirants to the nomination and it is hardly probable that there will be one.

The President believing in retrenchment and reform and the injustice to the people of retaining men in office to do nothing beyond draw their pay, has issued an order consolidating revenue districts, by which 22 are entirely abolished and the collectors retired from the service. These offices were created by the republican party and were nothing more than sinecures to reward certain offensive partisans for disreputable party work. The saving to the government by the consolidations will be more than $100,000 annually, and this is but another feather in the plume of the man who will lead his party to a grander victory than before, in 1888.

Now and then a lawyer in attempting to bulldoze a witness runs against a snag. At Lexington George Denny insinuated that one had lied, whereupon the irate individual jumped to his feet, threw his hat on the floor and proposed to wipe the earth up with Denny, if the court did not protect him. Judge Morton said it was as much his duty to protect a witness as a lawyer, and that he would do so; whereupon peace again reigned in Verano. A lying witness can generally be told to with impunity, but lawyers usually pick their men and rarely experience what Denny did.

The original copy of the ordinance of secession of the State of Virginia, which was stolen during the terrible days after the fall of Richmond just before the close of the war, has at last been heard from and Gov. Lee has taken steps to procure it. It is said to be in the possession of the widow of a soldier in Minnesota.

ORDINARY Rio coffee has jumped from 9 cents to 21 cents in nine months. This is an advance of 125 per cent. and is based on the shortness of the new crop, which begins to arrive in this country July 1.

W. B. DOBBS has purchased the Scottsville Sentinel and proposes to aid the boom that has struck that town so forcibly. He is an old hand at the business and knows what he is about.

Secretary of the Treasury Fairchild has issued a call for the redemption of $19,717,500 of the three-per-cent loan of 1882 on July 1, to be applied to the sinking fund requirements of the next fiscal year.

Hiram T. Hoover, claiming to be a Knights of Labor organizer, was fatally shot by a mob of indignant Georgians, for endeavoring to incite negro laborers to acts of incendiarism. Served him right.

Col. Richard West, one of the most prominent breeders of trotting horses in the United States, died suddenly at his home near Lexington, Friday.

The total debt of Fayette county is $150,000 and will be paid off in six years.

—George W. Battis, manager of the Kentucky Central railway, has kindly placed at Mr. Warnie's disposal a palace car for the transportation of his horses to New Jersey. George is a hustler.

—John Woodcock is still afflicted with odium theologium, or rather their teachings; and in that he is not alone. Bro. Barnee may have lost some friends here, but he has a few left who believe with him that "God is love and nothing else."

—It seems that we are actually to have no base ball club this year. The warm weather of the past week has taken the backbone out of the few gallant souls who were working up the project. They have succumbed to climatic influences.

—Master Clay Hamilton is the coming clerk. He has his store open at 5:30 every morning, is polite and accommodating and gives honest weight. Being too young to have sweethearts, and not a cigar or cigarette fiend, he is a valuable boy. Three cheers for Clay!

They will be assisted by Miss Maggie McClary, the most talented vocalist of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, and soloist of St. Xavier. Proceeds, after deducting expenses, to be given to the churches of this place. Let everybody come.

—On next Wednesday evening May 25, Mr. Curtis Robinson will be married to Miss Maggie Curry, one of Lancaster's most beautiful belles. The ceremony will be performed at the Christian church by Elder G. W. Yancey. The groom is the son of Col. B. F. Robinson, father of our sheriff, Mr. Tom Robinson, and the bride the daughter of Mr. Theodore Curry, one of Lancaster's prominent merchants.

—Ben Rowe, just returned from Florida, says he left Ben Burdett "pirouetting" around in Killarney. Miss Annie Holmes, of Crab Orchard, is visiting at Mr. H. C. Kaufman's. Capt. T. A. Elkin and wife are visiting friends at Atlanta, Georgia. Sam Anderson, of Louisville, was in this city last week. Hugh Logan is again lingering in our midst. He wore a killing suit of clothes Sunday. Sam McDonald, a dashing drummer from Cincinnati, spent Saturday and Sunday with us. Mr. C. D. Pescok, the Bryantsville druggist, spent Sunday in Lancaster.

—Messrs. Warnie & Wagner, the New Jersey gentlemen who have been here for a week, left for home yesterday. They purchased while here about half dozen horses, paying from $200 to $500 a head. Mr. Warnie is highly pleased with the get of Ultimus, his Hambletonian stallion in this county. There are now about 100 of these colts in the county. He predicts that out of the lot there will be some very good ones, and that high prices will be realized from their sale. What Garrard needs is more horse men. We have plenty fellows here who love fine horses and have good "theories" in regard to breeding and raising them, but there are too few who have the nerve to pay the price for breeding to a good horse.

BRODHEAD, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—The school at this place was closed last week on account of measles and other sicknesses.

—A party of excursionists just returning from a trip to some of the Laurel county coal mines, report a good time and extend many thanks to the people of Altamont and East Bagstad for the many favors shown them.

He never fails to make us a visit about the close of school, just before some of the students take their departure; but as he is a clever fellow and a model young man we gladly welcome him at any time. Joseph A. Hardin was in our midst Sunday. His many friends here are ever glad to have him come and sad when he leaves, so says his girl. Mrs. M. Belle Burnside, who has had a successful music class here for the past nine months, leaves to-day for her home near Lancaster, much to the regret of her patrons, pupils and friends.

—Died, on the 16th inst., of measles, Miss Laura S. Vanhook, 16 years of age. During her short stay of a few years in Brodhead, under the care and protection of her kind brother, J. H. Vanhook, she has won the hearts of many true friends who manifested their love by many kindnesses when they found she must die. Her words, "I am not afraid to die," afford much consolation to her friends. On the 17th inst. a large concourse of friends followed her lifeless but beautiful corpse to the Baptist church where her funeral was preached by Rev. Mr. Shackelford, after which the interment took place in the Brodhead cemetery.

—The steamships Celtic and Britannic, of the White Star Line, collided several hundred miles from New York Thursday evening about 5 o'clock, in a fog. Pearl Burnside made the remarkable record of not missing a single word during the term, and she was given two nice premiums for excellency in geography and spelling. Lucy Moffett and John Mount did not miss a word in spelling and they too were awarded premiums.

The Presbyterian church, built in 1838, will soon be among the things of the past, Raney & Allen contracted to take it down and clean the brick for $125 and yesterday commenced to raze it. This means of course that a new building is to be erected. The committee wants to build a $6,000 house, but as yet have raised only $3,800. Now is the chance for philanthropists to show their hands.

BOOMING - Capt. Frank Harris says the Knoxville Division did the largest freight business in its history Friday. There were 376 cars moving on that day, 208 of which were from local resources, such as coal, lumber, tan-bark, etc. The business is constantly on the increase and there is a big demand for more engines and cars. Saturday there were calls for 152 cars along the road from Lebanon Junction to Jellico.

THE position of teacher in the primary department of Stanford Female College for next session will be filled by Miss Hallie M. Welsh, of Garrard county. One who knows her says: With an experience in the school-room that has given entire satisfaction to her patrons, with a zeal and enthusiasm in her profession that is seldom found, and combining the rare qualities of controlling and winning her pupils, she bids fair to be very acceptable to our people. She is a member of the Christian Church and will bring patronage to the College.

WATERSPOUT - A little after 2 o'clock Sunday a waterspout deluged a strip of land along the farms of Messrs. Allen and Beszley J. E. Farris and in an incredibly short space of time the creek was nearly high enough to swim a horse and fence and other property along its line were being swept away by the angry current. In town there was a pretty heavy rain, but nothing like enough to raise the St. Asaph to the big tear it got on. Down on the farm of Mrs. R. R. Gentry there seems to have been another spout and much damage was done. In there as well as other localities the wheat was badly beaten down.

ROCK CASTLE SPRINGS - Manager F. J. Campbell, of this popular resort, was here Saturday, en route to Louisville, to purchase furniture and other appointments for the new hotel he has just completed. Improved water-works and gas are among the new attractions this season, while Siebert's celebrated orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music. The prospect is that the place will be crowded from the start go as it has continued to grow in popularity from the year that the present management took charge. Mr. Campbell has thousands of beautifully illustrated and illuminated folders and cards, which this office got out for him, descriptive of the many new attractions, and if you contemplate summering in the mountains this season, it will pay you to write to him for one.

SHOT IN THE PULPIT - Sunday night at Rev. George W. Bolling, of the colored Baptist church, was warming down to his sermon, some cowardly enemy fired at him through a broken window, the ball striking him in the left arm and glancing, shaved a furrow across his back. The shot created great consternation in the congregation, but the preacher seemed but little agitated and wanted to keep on with his discourse. The ball seems to have been a very small one and to have been fired from a pistol. A table was standing by the window and the rasal got the proper elevation by standing upon it. A colored boy at a house near by saw a mulatto or a white man sneak up to the building and run after the shot down the railroad. There is no clue to the would-be assassin, but every effort will be made to ferret him out. Bolling has many enemies both in and out of his church. He is said to be very "bigot" in his disposition and his methods have caused at least one big split in the church. It is also claimed that the part he took for prohibition made him other enemies, but it is hard to believe that either cause could have made anybody reckless enough to want to kill him. He is a considerable orator and in addition to his religious work, essays to be a political leader. His demand for the recognition of the colored man in the recent State republican convention will be remembered, as well as his subsequent appointment on the State Executive Committee.

WE are asked to say that it is the ladies of the Presbyterian church and not the Aid Society alone who are to give the strawberry supper.

By a slight change in the schedule on the L. & N., the express trains pass now at Rowland, the one from Louisville, 25, arriving here at 1:45 A. M., and the one to Louisville, 26, at 1:50.

BOLLING says it was a negro who shot him and he is pretty certain he knows who did it. He has placed a detective on the lookout and we hope the murderous scamp will be brought to justice.

The Lexington papers notice the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Boyd, mother of Mrs. Dr. Wilson, who formerly lived here. She was 84 years of age and for 30 of them had been a consistent member of the First Presbyterian church of Lexington.

The commissioners advertise for bids for $50,000 worth of 6 per cent. Garrard county bonds in denominations of $1,000, till June 15th. The bonds are sold for the purpose of funding the debt of the county and are gilt edged securities. See advertisement.

The ladies have decided to begin their strawberry supper at Wesley Hall at 5:30. They will charge grown persons 50 cents and children half that amount to go in and eat as much as they choose, of the long list of good things they will have. Remember next Friday afternoon, 27th.

ALL who have subscribed money to the building of the new Presbyterian church are requested to call on Geo. D. Wearen and pay as much as one-fourth of their subscriptions not later than the 10th day of June. 25 per cent more will be wanted on the 1st day of each succeeding month until all of the money is collected. Mack Hufman, A. S. Myers, J. S. Bailey, W. H. Higgins, Geo. D. Wearen, Building Committee.

DEATH - Mr. Hunley Singleton, an industrious, honorable, christian gentleman of the East End, died of dropsy of the heart Friday and was buried in Crab Orchard cemetery Saturday after funeral services by E. J. Q. Montgomery assisted by J. G. Livingston. A wife and several children survive him and to them he leaves a name untarnished and a memory they can always revere.

DRAWN TO DEATH - Friday afternoon as E. A. Little son of Dick Turman, colored, who lives on Mrs. James Paxton's place, was going up the cemetery hill leading a horse that he had brought to town to be shod, three boys, whose names have not been ascertained, began to throw rocks at him and finally struck the horse. Being young and fiery the animal dashed off at a furious rate, dragging the boy whose hand had caught in the reins, over rocks and other obstructions for fully a quarter of a mile. When found his head was torn all to pieces and he had already died. A coroner's jury was summoned by Squire Portman, but it was unable to find out who threw the stones. We understand that a lot of little devils, white and black, congregated at the bridge at the edge of town and make a practice of throwing at people. Their hides ought to be cut all to pieces by their parents and failing the marshal might put in some time trying to run up on them while they are practicing their rock throwing propensity. Mr. James Wray says he has more than once been made their target and others have had a like experience. A very short stop should be put to the business or the careers of the coming candidates for the gallows.

RELIGIOUS.

Rev. Harvey Glass will preach at the Court house next Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. George O. Barnes chocked that den of sin, the Buckingham Theatre, Louisville. Sunday afternoon, to hear him expound his sweet gospel of love.

Mr. Barnes made some warm friends here during his two weeks' stay, and his charming and accomplished daughters completely captivated all with whom they became acquainted. (Tupelo (Miss.) Journal.)

Rev. F. S. Pollitt left yesterday to canvass the counties of Harlan, Breathitt, Perry, Letcher, Lee, Knott, Owsley and Leslie, in the interest of the Kentucky Sunday-school Union, and will be absent about three weeks.

Elder M. J. Dennis, a reformed Jew, who was formerly pastor of the Christian church in this place, and who went off with the faith cure craze, has recently become a member of the Presbyterian Church. What will he do next? (Richmond Register.)

While Rev. T. J. Duncan, a Methodist minister, was delivering a lecture on prohibition at Springfield, Tennessee, two dynamite cartridges were exploded in the rear of the stand he occupied. The ground was torn up and windows shattered, but no one was hurt.

One of the main features of the Presbyterian General Assembly, in session at St. Louis, will be the effort to re-unite the Northern and Southern branches of the Church, which ought to be crowned with success. No reasons for a separation have existed for years.

The Mercer Tobacco Company have bought 11,000 pounds of tobacco from James Hawkins, of Woodford at 6 1/2 cents; 4,000 pounds at 4 cents, and 3,000 at 3 1/2 cents. They now have over 400,000 pounds of tobacco on hand and several men are at work sorting it. HOCKER & BRIGHT,

(SUCCESSORS TO W. H. HIGGINS.)

We will continue to handle the justly celebrated and most popular

COOK STOVES and RANGES in the Market. Full line of HARDWARE,

WAGON MATERIAL, GROCERIES, SALT, LIME, CEMENT, FLUE TILING, &c.

In FARMING IMPLEMENTS we will still place the OLIVER CHILL

PLOW in the lead of all others, where it justly deserves to be. Ask your neighbor in reference to its superiority. No steel plow in the market

equal to the IMPERIAL

Examine the BRINLEY COMBINATION PLOW & HARROW. In the

PUMPS! line we know the BUCKET PUMP ELEVATOR has no equal. All we ask is to give it a careful examination and trial and you will not have any other, ALASKA REFRIGERATORS and ICE BOXES.
